

Stollery Children's Hospital School offers two types of programs to fit your needs.

School Classroom Program –

Student attends school in one of the two hospital classrooms (Elementary and Secondary).

Bedside Teaching Program –

If you are unable to attend the classroom when in hospital, an Alberta Certified teacher brings one on one learning to your hospital bedside on all patient units, to meet your interests and needs.

Access and Referrals: Parents, Teens, and all members of the Health care and Education teams may refer to the School.

Referrals can be given to the Charge nurse on the Inpatient and Day Units.

Welcome to the Stollery Children's Hospital School

Even when you're experiencing illness or injury, learning can be fun and rewarding.

We know that getting started can be hard. The Stollery Children's Hospital School can make it easier. There are different ways to go to school here. On days that you can't make it to the classroom, the teacher will come to you!

Why should I attend school while in the hospital?

Going to school here means you'll have less to catch up on once you're home.

A little bit of school work every day helps make sure that no course becomes overwhelming.

Our teachers will work closely with your regular school to make sure class requirements are met and that you receive credit for your attendance.

Taking part in familiar activities like school, can help you cope with being in the hospital.

When you're ready to go home, our teachers work with your regular school to help make it a smooth transition back.

Reach your goals with our help

It might feel hard to go to school right now, but working towards future dreams, even when you're sick, makes you feel good and can help reduce worries and boredom in the hospital. Those feelings are worth the school work!

You don't have to do this alone. We work with you and your parents and start with your interests. Many students learn well when they're working one-on-one or in small groups. Together we find what works for you.

Our Stollery school teachers have the skills to help you be successful, no matter how you like to learn.
