

Pulmonary Embolus

Disposition

These patients are admitted to GIM unless hemodynamically unstable, intubated, or requiring either systemic or catheter directed thrombolysis in which case they should be admitted to the ICU.

Caveats

If provoked by a recent surgery, this is considered a post-operative complication and should be admitted to the surgical service that operated.

(Continued...)

Flowchart

